OH, JOY! TONIGHT'S HALLOWE'EN

Tonight is the night that spooks and hobgoblins are abroad throughout the land. They will be spirits of mischief and joke, so you are warned to nail the front gate good and tight and take in the door mat, let the dog loose and don't put the milk bottle on the front steps.

These precautions are given, for on this year there is a certain element of hoodlumism that has not only carried the joke part of hallowe'en too far, but has inaugurated vandalism and thievery.

There are many hallowe'en parties on for tonight, mostly of a private nature and there is no doubt that the pumpkin market would do a brisk business if Honolulu had such a market. However, the young people of this city usually turn out some very fair substitutes for that good old pie.

Wayfarers after dark may expect to meet crowds of moving objects under sheets and pillowcases, regarding the streets, ringing door bells and shouting "boo" at every one they meet. The sentimental maids will experiment with all the tests which are supposed to disclose who they will marry, and whether their beaux mean to marry them or are just passing away the time.

Peering into the future is the most important job on hand for tonight. All a girl has to do to see who she will marry is to take a mirror and look into it after she has walked down the stairs into the cellar backwards. If a man's face appears in the mirror he is "it." If no face appears the mirror should be carefully discarded (not broken, for that is bad luck) for that mirror don't know its business.

Among the many sports of this evening will be the ducking for apples and like fruit that is floating in a tub of water, the hands, in the mean time being tied behind the back. Eating crackers tied to a long string and hung from the ceiling is another diversion and furnishes lots of fun—for those looking on.

It is said that at a certain hour tonight, those who are without their homes will hear a "rushing" through the air sound, and it is supposed to be the three figures pictured above; the queen of the witches and her faithful attendants on their yearly tour of the world to see that the goblins are all on duty and attending to the same.

The exact hour of passing cannot be given as it all depends on the phase of the moon.

Police Will Be Busy.
Chief of Detectives McDuffie will be out patrolling the city tonight with his strong arm squad and all hoodlums who regard hallowe'en lights as a time to commit depredations such as carry off gates and pieces, grease streetcar tracks and commit other acts of a like nature, will be arrested. He will place his men in the districts which in former years have been picked out as fields of hoodlums.

Palma Settlement this evening
A real lifestyled street carnival will be operation—one of those kind with sideshows and spellers, candy booths, "hot dogs," and a shoot the breeze over to the affairs and it is said to be a pronounced success.

Tickets will be sold on the inside at the rate of ten for five cents, and from one to two tickets will be charge for each attraction. There will be no admission to the building, and all residents of the Palma Settlement are invited, as well as others.

Out at the Homestead this evening the members of the Y. W. C. A. and their friends will hold forth and have a real old-fashioned hallowe'en celebration, will be in the form of a masquerade and ghosts and goblins will haunt the place from the attic to the cellar.

The old-time amusements such as pinning the tail on the donkey, blowing soap bubbles and ducking for apples will be played and at the close of the festivities, pumpkin pie, doughnuts and cider will hold the attention of those present.

Hallowe'en is so called as being the eve or vigil of All Hallows' or festival of All Saints which falls on November 1. It is associated in the popular imagination with the prevalence of supernatural influences, and is clearly a relic of pagan times.

In Scotland the ceremonies of the eve were formerly regarded in a highly superstitious light, and Burns' "hallowe'en" gave a humorous and richly imaginative presentation of the usual ceremonies as practiced in Scottish rural districts in his day.

The principal object of curiosity in consulting the future was to discover who should be the life partner. Popular belief ascribed to children born on hallowe'en the faculty of preceiving and holding converse with supernatural beings.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY AT BERETANIA MISSION

Mr. and Mrs. Elijah MacKenzie, who are in charge of the Beretania Mission, were hosts at a hallowe'en party at the mission last night. Invitations had been issued to the students and their friends, and from the number that were present it was evident that none who were invited had declined with regret.

The fun started off with the old-time amusements such as bobbing for apples and blowing soap bubbles, and a black face minstrel show was the source of much amusement. Music for the occasion was furnished by different boys and girls of the neighborhood and several songs were sung in English, including "My Old Kentucky Home," and "Old Black Joe." Aloha Oa was sung in Hawaiian and the performance was finished with a Chinese yell.

While hallowe'en is generally an excuse to leave one's good discipline at home, there was not one attempt at mischief by the large crowd of boys of all ages who were present. The order and ease with which the gathering was maintained speaks well for the influence of Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie among the Chinese of that neighborhood.

The social hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion and was quite spooky. At the close of the evening refreshments of soda water, cake apples and peanuts were served.

Y. M. C. A. TO START COURSE ON INVESTMENTS

Beginning next Wednesday night another big feature of the Y. M. C. A. night school will be started, and will be in the form of a series of six lectures upon the subject of "Investments," which will be given to all those who are interested, by C. G. Heiser, broker for the Trent Trust Company.

The lectures will be held, probably in Cooke hall, every Wednesday night until all six have been given. Mr. Heiser will start out with the subject of stocks, telling what they are and giving detailed explanations of the various kinds, including sugar, mining and oil. From that topic he will take up bonds, explaining what they represent, and showing the relative value of the different forms, deeds of trust, etc. One of the interesting features under this head will be a discussion of exchange, its methods and purposes, and value to the business world.

Real estate will come next in line, and the talk on this will be given from the standpoint of an investment; the various classes of real estate investment. The last talk will cover insurance and its value as an investment.
